Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

How often do you find yourself wishing there were more time in the day? Working hard, maintaining a clean home, reducing energy consumption to benefit the environment, and exercising regularly are all necessities in today's world. "Alex Gadsden" was always pressed for time, just like the rest of us. He needed to shed some pounds because he was juggling a home and a business. Because of this, he resolved to take action. The bicycle washer was his invention. A 45-minute bike ride now greets the 29-year-old every morning. He does the laundry, cuts down on energy costs, and feels better overall.

"The user gets a good workout," he stated. Even after just two weeks of use, I can tell it's making a difference. More often than not, I now rise at approximately 6:30 in the morning and immediately start the cycle washer. Having it in the garden allows me to enjoy being outdoors. After that, I'm energized. After that, I usually have breakfast and a shower, and then I feel prepared to start the day. The environmentally friendly washing machine uses 25 liters of water per wash and takes out enough laundry to fill a shopping bag. His typical cycle time is 25 minutes for washing and 20 minutes for drying clothes. Of course, it also doesn't require any power.

The owner of a cleaning service, Mr. Gadsden, is certain that his device will sell like hotcakes. He could very well be correct if his invention simultaneously cleans your clothes, keeps you fit, and lowers your electricity bill.

Question 1. What is the passage mainly about?

- A. Cycling makes you healthier
- B. Ways to do the washing properly
- C. A fascinating invention
- D. The importance of daily exercise

Question 2. The word "consumption" in paragraph 1 is closest in meaning to ____.

- A. preservation
- B. reflection
- C. humiliation

Question 3. According to paragraph 1, what does Alex Gadsden achieve with the invention of the cycle washer?

- A. His electricity bills are reduced.
- B. He puts on weight.
- C. He helps his wife with the washing-up.
- D. He becomes more involved in recycling.

Question 4. The word "it" in paragraph 2 refers to ____.

- A. workout
- B. energy costs
- C. the cycle washer
- D. difference

Question 5. Which of the following is NOT true, according to the passage?

- A. The cycle washer can help you to remain strong and healthy.
- B. It doesn't require any electricity to run the cycle washer.
- C. Alex Gadsden is positive about the success of the cycle washer.
- D. Alex's machine isn't effective in terms of cleaning the clothes.

Family Life in the United States

Family life in the United States is changing. Fifty or sixty years ago, the wife was called a "housewife". She cleaned, cooked, and cared for the children. The husband earned the money for the family. He was usually out working all day. He came home tired in the evening, so he did not do much housework. And he did not see the children very much, except on weekends.

These days, however, more and more women work outside the home. They cannot stay with the children all day. They, too, come home tired in the evening. They do not want to spend the evening cooking dinner and cleaning up. They do not have time to clean the house and do the laundry. So, who is going to do the housework now? Who is going to take care of the children?

Many families solve the problem of housework by sharing it. In these families, the husband and wife agree to do different jobs around the house, or they take turns doing each job. For example, the husband always cooks dinner and the wife always does the laundry. Or the wife cooks dinner on some nights and the husband cooks dinner on other nights.

Then there is the question of the children. In the past, many families got help with child care from grandparents. Now families usually do not live near their relatives. The grandparents are often too far away to help in a regular way. More often, parents have to pay for child care help. The help may be a babysitter or a day-care center. The problem with this kind of help is the high cost. It is possible only for couples with jobs that pay well.

Parents may get another kind of help from the companies they work for. Many companies now let people with children work part-time. That way, parents can spend more time with their children. Some husbands may even stop working for a while to stay with the children. For these men there is a new word: they are called "househusbands". In the USA more and more men are becoming househusbands every year.

These changes in the home mean changes in the family. Fathers can learn to understand their children better, and the children can get to know their fathers better. Husbands and wives may also find changes in their marriage. They, too, may have a better understanding of each other.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

The relationship between humans and the Earth is very important. We depend on the Earth for many things. First, we need clean air to breathe. Trees and plants help keep the air clean by taking in carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen. Second, we need clean water to drink. Rivers, lakes, and oceans provide us with water, so we must keep them clean.

The Earth also gives us food. We grow vegetables, fruits, and grains in the soil. Farmers work hard to produce the food we eat. We must take care of the soil so it stays healthy and can keep giving us food.

We also get materials from the Earth to build houses, make clothes, and create tools. We use wood, metal, and stone from the Earth to make the things we need. It is important to use these resources wisely and not waste them.

Humans can harm the Earth by polluting the air, water, and soil. This pollution can make it hard for plants, animals, and people to live. Therefore, we must be careful to protect the environment. Recycling, saving energy, and not wasting water are some ways we can help.

In conclusion, humans and the Earth are connected. By taking care of the Earth, we take care of ourselves. It is our home, and we need to protect it for future generations.

Teenagers love music. They, specifically, attach meaning to and take aspects of their identity from music. It is not surprising that music holds so much meaning for today's teens.

Music creates a much-needed sense of belonging in the lives of teenagers. Teenagers are known for feeling isolated from society and friends. Music, as an art form, can help them express the feelings of frustration that come with feeling isolated. Listening to music can also give teens the chance to feel connected to musicians and other fans of specific musicians.

Music is a well-known tool for stress relief. Many people actively turn to music as a coping strategy when processing stress or sadness, because it helps shut out the noise of the world and the noise inside our heads. Furthermore, music is increasingly being used as a form of therapy, and music therapy has existed for centuries. Teenagers, especially those going through puberty, conflicts with friends, or the college process, are under a high amount of stress. Listening to music has been seen to help teens process or release difficult emotions in a healthy way.

Experiences tend to be very different depending on race or ethnicity. Music provides the opportunity for teens of all races and ethnicities to share a common bond and learn about each other's cultures and backgrounds. For instance, much of the Rap and R&B genres originated in Black culture, and many of the prominent performers and names in those genres are Black. Music is also usually very personal to the experience of the artist, so through those things, music can be used as an educational tool for teenagers to learn about backgrounds differing from theirs.

Music can also provide teenagers with a skill or hobby that is special to them, which can help further build identity and give teens something to be proud of during a period of life that is often characterized by low self-confidence. Music is an incredibly powerful tool that can be accessed and appreciated by people of all ages and backgrounds.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

How often do you find yourself wishing there were more time in the day? Working hard, maintaining a clean home, reducing energy consumption to benefit the environment, and exercising regularly are all necessities in today's world. "Alex Gadsden" was always pressed for time, just like the rest of us. He needed to shed some pounds because he was juggling a home and a business. Because of this, he resolved to take action. The bicycle washer was his invention. A 45-minute bike ride now greets the 29-year-old every morning. He does the laundry, cuts down on energy costs, and feels better overall.

"The user gets a good workout," he stated. Even after just two weeks of use, I can tell it's making a difference. More often than not, I now rise at approximately 6:30 in the morning and immediately start the cycle washer. Having it in the garden allows me to enjoy being outdoors. After that, I'm energized. After that, I usually have breakfast and a shower, and then I feel prepared to start the day. The environmentally friendly washing machine uses 25 liters of water per wash and takes out enough laundry to fill a shopping bag. His typical cycle time is 25 minutes for washing and 20 minutes for drying clothes. Of course, it also doesn't require any power.

The owner of a cleaning service, Mr. Gadsden, is certain that his device will sell like hotcakes. He could very well be correct if his invention simultaneously cleans your clothes, keeps you fit, and lowers your electricity bill.

Question 12. What is the passage mainly about?

- A. The importance of daily exercise
- B. A fascinating invention
- C. Ways to do the washing properly
- D. Cycling makes you healthier

Question 13. The word "consumption" in paragraph 1 is closet in meaning to _____.

- A. preservation
- B. humiliation
- C. utilization
- D. reflection

Question 14. According to paragraph 1, what does Alex Gadsden achieve with the invention of the cycle washer?

- A. He becomes more involved in recycling.
- B. His electricity bills are reduced.
- C. He puts on weight.
- D. He helps his wife with the washing-up.

Question 15. The word "it" in paragraph 2 refers to _____.

- A. workout
- B. difference
- C. the cycle washer
- D. energy costs

Question 16. Which of the following is NOT true, according to the passage?

- A. Alex Gadsden is positive about the success of the cycle washer.
- B. It doesn't require any electricity to run the cycle washer.
- C. The cycle washer can help you to remain strong and healthy.
- D. Alex's machine isn't effective in terms of cleaning the clothes.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Family Life in the United States

Family life in the United States is changing. Fifty or sixty years ago, the wife was called a "housewife". She cleaned, cooked, and cared for the children. The husband earned the money for the family. He was usually out working all day. He came home tired in the evening, so he did not do much housework. And he did not see the children very much, except on weekends.

These days, however, more and more women work outside the home. They cannot stay with the children all day. They, too, come home tired in the evening. They do not want to spend the evening cooking dinner and cleaning up. They do not have time to clean the house and do the laundry. So, who is going to do the housework now? Who is going to take care of the children?

Many families solve the problem of housework by sharing it. In these families, the husband and wife agree to do different jobs around the house, or they take turns doing each job. For example, the husband always cooks dinner and the wife always does the laundry. Or the wife cooks dinner on some nights and the husband cooks dinner on other nights.

Then there is the question of the children. In the past, many families got help with child care from grandparents. Now families usually do not live near their relatives. The grandparents are often too far away to help in a regular way. More often, parents have to pay for child care help. The help may be a babysitter or a day-care center. The problem with this kind of help is the high cost. It is possible only for couples with jobs that pay well.

Parents may get another kind of help from the companies they work for. Many companies now let people with children work part-time. That way, parents can spend more time with their children. Some husbands may even stop working for a while to stay with the children. For these men there is a new word: they are called "househusbands". In the USA more and more men are becoming househusbands every year.

These changes in the home mean changes in the family. Fathers can learn to understand their children better, and the children can get to know their fathers better. Husbands and wives may also find changes in their marriage. They, too, may have a better understanding of each other.

Question 19. This article is about _____

- A. American men as househusbands.
- B. housewives in America.
- C. how more American women are working.
- D. how family life in America is changing.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Teenagers love music. They, specifically, attach meaning to and take aspects of their identity from music. It is not surprising that music holds so much meaning for today's teens.

Music creates a much-needed sense of belonging in the lives of teenagers. Teenagers are known for feeling isolated from society and friends. Music, as an art form, can help them express the feelings of frustration that come with feeling isolated. Listening to music can also give teens the chance to feel connected to musicians and other fans of specific musicians.

Music is a well-known tool for stress relief. Many people actively turn to music as a coping strategy when processing stress or sadness, because it helps shut out the noise of the world and the noise inside our heads. Furthermore, music is increasingly being used as a form of therapy, and music therapy has existed for centuries. Teenagers, especially those going through puberty, conflicts with friends, or the college process, are under a high amount of stress. Listening to music has been seen to help teens process or release difficult emotions in a healthy way.

Experiences tend to be very different depending on race or ethnicity. Music provides the opportunity for teens of all races and ethnicities to share a common bond and learn about each other's cultures and backgrounds. For instance, much of the Rap and R&B genres originated in Black culture, and many of the prominent performers and names in those genres are Black. Music is also usually very personal to the experience of the artist, so through those things, music can be used as an educational tool for teenagers to learn about backgrounds differing from theirs.

Music can also provide teenagers with a skill or hobby that is special to them, which can help further build identity and give teens something to be proud of during a period of life that is often characterized by low self-confidence. Music is an incredibly powerful tool that can be accessed and appreciated by people of all ages and backgrounds.

The relationship between humans and the Earth is very important. We depend on the Earth for many things. First, we need clean air to breathe. Trees and plants help keep the air clean by taking in carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen. Second, we need clean water to drink. Rivers, lakes, and oceans provide us with water, so we must keep them clean.

The Earth also gives us food. We grow vegetables, fruits, and grains in the soil. Farmers work hard to produce the food we eat. We must take care of the soil so it stays healthy and can keep giving us food.

We also get materials from the Earth to build houses, make clothes, and create tools. We use wood, metal, and stone from the Earth to make the things we need. It is important to use these resources wisely and not waste them.

Humans can harm the Earth by polluting the air, water, and soil. This pollution can make it hard for plants, animals, and people to live. Therefore, we must be careful to protect the environment. Recycling, saving energy, and not wasting water are some ways we can help.

In conclusion, humans and the Earth are connected. By taking care of the Earth, we take care of ourselves. It is our home, and we need to protect it for future generations.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Family Life in the United States

Family life in the United States is changing. Fifty or sixty years ago, the wife was called a "housewife". She cleaned, cooked, and cared for the children. The husband earned the money for the family. He was usually out working all day. He came home tired in the evening, so he did not do much housework. And he did not see the children very much, except on weekends.

These days, however, more and more women work outside the home. They cannot stay with the children all day. They, too, come home tired in the evening. They do not want to spend the evening cooking dinner and cleaning up. They do not have time to clean the house and do the laundry. So, who is going to do the housework now? Who is going to take care of the children?

Many families solve the problem of housework by sharing it. In these families, the husband and wife agree to do different jobs around the house, or they take turns doing each job. For example, the husband always cooks dinner and the wife always does the laundry. Or the wife cooks dinner on some nights and the husband cooks dinner on other nights.

Then there is the question of the children. In the past, many families got help with child care from grandparents. Now families usually do not live near their relatives. The grandparents are often too far away to help in a regular way. More often, parents have to pay for child care help. The help may be a babysitter or a day-care center. The problem with this kind of help is the high cost. It is possible only for couples with jobs that pay well.

Parents may get another kind of help from the companies they work for. Many companies now let people with children work part-time. That way, parents can spend more time with their children. Some husbands may even stop working for a while to stay with the children. For these men there is a new word: they are called "househusbands". In the USA more and more men are becoming househusbands every year.

These changes in the home mean changes in the family. Fathers can learn to understand their children better, and the children can get to know their fathers better. Husbands and wives may also find changes in their marriage. They, too, may have a better understanding of each other.

- Question 27. This article is about _____

How often do you find yourself wishing there were more time in the day? Working hard, maintaining a clean home, reducing energy consumption to benefit the environment, and exercising regularly are all necessities in today's world. "Alex Gadsden" was always pressed for time, just like the rest of us. He needed to shed some pounds because he was juggling a home and a business. Because of this, he resolved to take action. The bicycle washer was his invention. A 45-minute bike ride now greets the 29-year-old every morning. He does the laundry, cuts down on energy costs, and feels better overall.

"The user gets a good workout," he stated. Even after just two weeks of use, I can tell it's making a difference. More often than not, I now rise at approximately 6:30 in the morning and immediately start the cycle washer. Having it in the garden allows me to enjoy being outdoors. After that, I'm energized. After that, I usually have breakfast and a shower, and then I feel prepared to start the day. The environmentally friendly washing machine uses 25 liters of water per wash and takes out enough laundry to fill a shopping bag. His typical cycle time is 25 minutes for washing and 20 minutes for drying clothes. Of course, it also doesn't require any power.

The owner of a cleaning service, Mr. Gadsden, is certain that his device will sell like hotcakes. He could very well be correct if his invention simultaneously cleans your clothes, keeps you fit, and lowers your electricity bill.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

The relationship between humans and the Earth is very important. We depend on the Earth for many things. First, we need clean air to breathe. Trees and plants help keep the air clean by taking in carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen. Second, we need clean water to drink. Rivers, lakes, and oceans provide us with water, so we must keep them clean.

The Earth also gives us food. We grow vegetables, fruits, and grains in the soil. Farmers work hard to produce the food we eat. We must take care of the soil so it stays healthy and can keep giving us food.

We also get materials from the Earth to build houses, make clothes, and create tools. We use wood, metal, and stone from the Earth to make the things we need. It is important to use these resources wisely and not waste them.

Humans can harm the Earth by polluting the air, water, and soil. This pollution can make it hard for plants, animals, and people to live. Therefore, we must be careful to protect the environment. Recycling, saving energy, and not wasting water are some ways we can help.

In conclusion, humans and the Earth are connected. By taking care of the Earth, we take care of ourselves. It is our home, and we need to protect it for future generations.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Teenagers love music. They, specifically, attach meaning to and take aspects of their identity from music. It is not surprising that music holds so much meaning for today's teens.

Music creates a much-needed sense of belonging in the lives of teenagers. Teenagers are known for feeling isolated from society and friends. Music, as an art form, can help them express the feelings of frustration that come with feeling isolated. Listening to music can also give teens the chance to feel connected to musicians and other fans of specific musicians.

Music is a well-known tool for stress relief. Many people actively turn to music as a coping strategy when processing stress or sadness, because it helps shut out the noise of the world and the noise inside our heads. Furthermore, music is increasingly being used as a form of therapy, and music therapy has existed for centuries. Teenagers, especially those going through puberty, conflicts with friends, or the college process, are under a high amount of stress. Listening to music has been seen to help teens process or release difficult emotions in a healthy way.

Experiences tend to be very different depending on race or ethnicity. Music provides the opportunity for teens of all races and ethnicities to share a common bond and learn about each other's cultures and backgrounds. For instance, much of the Rap and R&B genres originated in Black culture, and many of the prominent performers and names in those genres are Black. Music is also usually very personal to the experience of the artist, so through those things, music can be used as an educational tool for teenagers to learn about backgrounds differing from theirs.

Music can also provide teenagers with a skill or hobby that is special to them, which can help further build identity and give teens something to be proud of during a period of life that is often characterized by low self-confidence. Music is an incredibly powerful tool that can be accessed and appreciated by people of all ages and backgrounds.

Family Life in the United States

Family life in the United States is changing. Fifty or sixty years ago, the wife was called a "housewife". She cleaned, cooked, and cared for the children. The husband earned the money for the family. He was usually out working all day. He came home tired in the evening, so he did not do much housework. And he did not see the children very much, except on weekends.

These days, however, more and more women work outside the home. They cannot stay with the children all day. They, too, come home tired in the evening. They do not want to spend the evening cooking dinner and cleaning up. They do not have time to clean the house and do the laundry. So, who is going to do the housework now? Who is going to take care of the children?

Many families solve the problem of housework by sharing it. In these families, the husband and wife agree to do different jobs around the house, or they take turns doing each job. For example, the husband always cooks dinner and the wife always does the laundry. Or the wife cooks dinner on some nights and the husband cooks dinner on other nights.

Then there is the question of the children. In the past, many families got help with child care from grandparents. Now families usually do not live near their relatives. The grandparents are often too far away to help in a regular way. More often, parents have to pay for child care help. The help may be a babysitter or a day-care center. The problem with this kind of help is the high cost. It is possible only for couples with jobs that pay well.

Parents may get another kind of help from the companies they work for. Many companies now let people with children work part-time. That way, parents can spend more time with their children. Some husbands may even stop working for a while to stay with the children. For these men there is a new word: they are called "househusbands". In the USA more and more men are becoming househusbands every year.

These changes in the home mean changes in the family. Fathers can learn to understand their children better, and the children can get to know their fathers better. Husbands and wives may also find changes in their marriage. They, too, may have a better understanding of each other.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

How often do you find yourself wishing there were more time in the day? Working hard, maintaining a clean home, reducing energy consumption to benefit the environment, and exercising regularly are all necessities in today's world. "Alex Gadsden" was always pressed for time, just like the rest of us. He needed to shed some pounds because he was juggling a home and a business. Because of this, he resolved to take action. The bicycle washer was his invention. A 45-minute bike ride now greets the 29-year-old every morning. He does the laundry, cuts down on energy costs, and feels better overall.

"The user gets a good workout," he stated. Even after just two weeks of use, I can tell it's making a difference. More often than not, I now rise at approximately 6:30 in the morning and immediately start the cycle washer. Having it in the garden allows me to enjoy being outdoors. After that, I'm energized. After that, I usually have breakfast and a shower, and then I feel prepared to start the day. The environmentally friendly washing machine uses 25 liters of water per wash and takes out enough laundry to fill a shopping bag. His typical cycle time is 25 minutes for washing and 20 minutes for drying clothes. Of course, it also doesn't require any power.

The owner of a cleaning service, Mr. Gadsden, is certain that his device will sell like hotcakes. He could very well be correct if his invention simultaneously cleans your clothes, keeps you fit, and lowers your electricity bill.

Question 32. What is the passage mainly about?

A. His electricity bills are reduced.

B. He puts on weight.

C. He helps his wife with the washing-up.

D. He becomes more involved in recycling.

Question 35. The word "it" in paragraph 2 refers to _____.

A. difference

B. workout

C. the cycle washer

D. energy costs

Question 36. Which of the following is NOT true, according to the passage?

A. Alex Gadsden is positive about the success of the cycle washer.

B. The cycle washer can help you to remain strong and healthy.

C. It doesn't require any electricity to run the cycle washer.

D. Alex's machine isn't effective in terms of cleaning the clothes.

The relationship between humans and the Earth is very important. We depend on the Earth for many things. First, we need clean air to breathe. Trees and plants help keep the air clean by taking in carbon dioxide and giving out oxygen. Second, we need clean water to drink. Rivers, lakes, and oceans provide us with water, so we must keep them clean.

The Earth also gives us food. We grow vegetables, fruits, and grains in the soil. Farmers work hard to produce the food we eat. We must take care of the soil so it stays healthy and can keep giving us food.

We also get materials from the Earth to build houses, make clothes, and create tools. We use wood, metal, and stone from the Earth to make the things we need. It is important to use these resources wisely and not waste them.

Humans can harm the Earth by polluting the air, water, and soil. This pollution can make it hard for plants, animals, and people to live. Therefore, we must be careful to protect the environment. Recycling, saving energy, and not wasting water are some ways we can help.

In conclusion, humans and the Earth are connected. By taking care of the Earth, we take care of ourselves. It is our home, and we need to protect it for future generations.

Teenagers love music. They, specifically, attach meaning to and take aspects of their identity from music. It is not surprising that music holds so much meaning for today's teens.

Music creates a much-needed sense of belonging in the lives of teenagers. Teenagers are known for feeling isolated from society and friends. Music, as an art form, can help them express the feelings of frustration that come with feeling isolated. Listening to music can also give teens the chance to feel connected to musicians and other fans of specific musicians.

Music is a well-known tool for stress relief. Many people actively turn to music as a coping strategy when processing stress or sadness, because it helps shut out the noise of the world and the noise inside our heads. Furthermore, music is increasingly being used as a form of therapy, and music therapy has existed for centuries. Teenagers, especially those going through puberty, conflicts with friends, or the college process, are under a high amount of stress. Listening to music has been seen to help teens process or release difficult emotions in a healthy way.

Experiences tend to be very different depending on race or ethnicity. Music provides the opportunity for teens of all races and ethnicities to share a common bond and learn about each other's cultures and backgrounds. For instance, much of the Rap and R&B genres originated in Black culture, and many of the prominent performers and names in those genres are Black. Music is also usually very personal to the experience of the artist, so through those things, music can be used as an educational tool for teenagers to learn about backgrounds differing from theirs.

Music can also provide teenagers with a skill or hobby that is special to them, which can help further build identity and give teens something to be proud of during a period of life that is often characterized by low self-confidence. Music is an incredibly powerful tool that can be accessed and appreciated by people of all ages and backgrounds.
